Introduction

Elbert County possesses a quintessential western landscape with long-distance views of the Front Range and working agricultural lands. This area marks the end of the Front Range and the beginning of high plains grasslands. The western portion of the County is characterized by rolling hills with large stands of ponderosa pine woodlands and outcrop rock formations. Toward the east, the land flattens and transitions to farmlands and grasslands. The County is located in eastern Colorado, approximately 41 miles southeast of Denver and 91 miles west of the Kansas-Colorado border. However, the County is bordered by the fast-growing counties of Arapahoe to the north, Douglas to the west and El Paso to the south. The major towns and community growth in the western portion of the County are roughly a 25-minute drive from nearby Castle Rock and less than an hour commute to the Denver, Aurora, and Colorado Springs areas.

Mission Statement

Elbert County provides essential statutory services and supportive infrastructure to our citizens in a professional, respectful, and cost-effective manner while creating a working environment that supports their endeavors, western lifestyle and rights as individuals.

A letter from the Elbert County Manager

The County government continually recognizes the dynamic challenges to provide services for the people of Elbert County. The Board of County Commissioners (BOCC) reviewed previous County planning documents as a base for their Strategic 10 year vision to ensure that services and initiatives lead us to a prosperous future. The planning team developed five specific goals, fourteen strategies, and twenty-four strategic objectives that provides quality services, transparent government, professional employees, and a community that is set for the future.

The BOCC, elected officials, and the County departments all collaborated on the imperatives and used feedback from town halls and other forums to develop objectives and ways to improve services. This plan is a living document that will be reviewed and revised annually based on measured evaluation criteria of each objective and progress on achieving those goals in a predetermined timeframe that is in accordance with the development of the following year's budget. The committee established a vision and mission statement as well as updated and defined its values and objectives. Values are the basic principles and beliefs of Elbert County. They guide the way we make and carry out decisions and govern the behavior of individual public servants and county government as a whole. The objectives are set goals that synchronize priorities to achieve the County's stated vision and effectively allocate limited resources and set strategic goals that can be supported by all departments and elected offices. Each one of these planning facets assists in focusing the effort of the County to meet the expectations and requirements of the community and look to its future. The plan holds the County government accountable and also provides a level of transparency to priorities and financially responsible use of funds. We are committed to improving infrastructure, services and constantly seeking new and innovative solutions to ensure we have the County you love to live and work in.

I look forward to working with everyone on this plan and welcome feedback so Elbert County continues to grow and prosper while maintaining its rural values and character.

2018 Elbert County Budget

Elbert County’s budget is important to the success of the strategic plan. Leadership will have to prioritize resources (personnel, revenue and capital) in order to not only continue providing current levels of service, but integrate goals, strategies, and strategic objectives.

The $28,000,000 annual budget is complex. The largest revenue streams are taxes, state/federal programs, and charges for services. The largest expenditure categories are public works, public safety, and human services. The following tables and charts provide a visual of this information.

County staff takes the stewardship of public funds seriously and will manage those resources to best serve the citizens and move this plan forward.

The Strategic Plan Process

Purpose of the Strategic Plan

Strategic thinking is used to assess the County’s current services and charts a course to maintain and/or improve desired services for citizens, with the results being a documented strategic plan. The Strategic Plan helps us make decisions on allocating human and capital resources to achieve the identified goals, strategies and objectives. The plan encourages collaborations, partnerships and creative thought among County leaders, partners, stakeholders, municipalities and citizens. Finally, the plan clearly communicates the County’s intended direction over the next five to ten years. Regular updates to the plan will keep it current.

Structure of the Strategic Plan

The strategic plan is comprised of multiple County resources, surveys, and documentation. We are utilizing feedback from staff, elected officials and the citizens to execute a streamlined plan to include transparency, a future planning road-map and provide the County a way to measure significant achievements and measure these successes against the plan.

Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats (SWOT)

Research included a Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats (SWOT) survey that was sent to all staff and key organizational volunteers. Key findings of the SWOT include:

Strengths

Elbert County's small workforce allows for a more cohesive and customer centric team. Employees are dedicated to their positions, the County, and the citizens. Leadership is there when needed.

Weaknesses

Internal and external communication can, and should be improved. Concerns with respect to benefits, salaries, raises, and retirement were voiced by employees. Being short staffed was also raised as a concern and is expected where leadership is being responsible as stewards of taxpayer funding.

Opportunities

Growth was listed as an opportunity and is expected to bring more businesses and more housing choices for Elbert County residents. Growth should also come with increased County revenue for more services. More population should also increase the pool to recruit qualified personnel as County employment grows.

Threats

Anti-growth angst is a concern when balancing revenue with increased cost of baseline services and potential to increase services. Another threat mentioned was that if population grows, we must expect to see increased demands from the public for increases in services – and how do we maintain services if there is an economic downturn. Finally, in order to maintain and recruit talent, we must benchmark ourselves against our neighboring counties.

Citizen Engagement Survey

In addition to the traditional SWOT completed with staff and volunteers, the Board of County Commissioners authorized a County Wide Citizen Engagement Survey to provide additional information to drive the strategic direction of the County. The online survey was modeled from other county surveys and a flyer was mailed (with tax statements) to every property tax payer in the county (approximately 12,000) with a link to the survey. In addition, the link was posted on social media and announced at Board of County Commissioners meetings.

The survey was completed by 608 respondents. The following issues were identified as important to the respondents:

- Roads and bridges
- Communication
- Transparency
- Water
- Housing Development
- Rural feel/values
- Business development

In addition, 70% of the respondents were satisfied with County employees when conducting County business, 22% were dissatisfied, and 8% reported no contact. The County should continue to survey citizens in order to address not only the satisfaction rate, but the key issues stated above.

How is the Strategic Plan Used?

The plan will be used by County administration and all departments when developing annual work plans. It addresses the five specific goals, fourteen strategies, and twenty-four strategic objectives which align with the County's vision, mission, and goals.

Based on the twenty-four strategic objectives the County Manager will further identify short-range, mid-range, and long-range tasks. These tasks will be organized to allow staff to accurately prioritize department workloads.

Progress within the plan will be regularly updated to the community. Future policy and budget recommendations will be tied back to the plan.

Strategic Plan Update Process

Updates will be driven by the success of annual work plans as well as changes in the internal and external environment that need to be considered. Citizen engagement surveys may be conducted to gather additional information from the public. The County Manager will initiate the review, update, and coordination efforts and recommend changes to the Board of County Commissioners.

Closing

Strategic thinking, and therefore strategic planning, are critical to an organization's long term success. While it is much easier to focus on day-to-day tasks, looking forward into time is much harder to do. We believe that we have crafted a plan that accomplishes that, and allows for updates along as we move forward.

- Expect transparency in our operations and future planning
- Expect annual updates and status reports that show our progress
- Expect us to reach out to citizens to find out how we are doing, and how to better communicate and plan for the future

The Elbert County government will strive to meet our mission and move the County toward the vision!
